DRIVER OF POVERTY #8

English proficiency and cultural differences

Mural Theme: "Silent Voice"

Join The Walls Project in igniting change by supporting our upcoming mural on "Silent Voice", which addresses the 8th Driver of Poverty.

Limited English proficiency creates barriers between cultures and can result in a lack of growth of members in these communities. It can also make it difficult to succeed in higher education and attain jobs. Adults with limited English proficiency also have higher rates of unemployment and lower wages. A result of this effect is that it can create a poverty trap for many families.

Through public art, The Walls Project hopes to affect the dialogue around cultural differences and the value of a multi-lingual individuals.
